Cheektowaga restaurant struck by car – again

Updated: September 8, 2016, 10:11 PM Published: September 8, 2016, 10:11 PM

A restaurant that serves Chinese food in the Rite Aid Plaza at Losson and Union roads in Cheektowaga was struck by an errant motorist on Thursday afternoon, according to town police.

The driver told Cheektowaga Police she mistakenly hit the wrong foot pedal as she was pulling out and drove right into the restaurant, at about 4:20 p.m.

The motorist was not injured but a worker in the restaurant had to be treated for what police described as non-life-threatening cuts caused by shattered window glass, according to Cheektowaga police.

The crash was the second for the restaurant in the past decade or so, according to Cheektowaga police.

The driver involved in Thursday's crash is not expected to be charged, according to town police.
