

Local News

Cheektowaga man returns home after road rage attack, wife says

By:

Franz Ross (<https://www.wivb.com/meet-the-team/franz-ross/1210305257>)

✉ (<mailto:franz.ross@wivb.com>)

Updated: Dec 21, 2018 11:24 PM EST

(Interactive Media Not Supported by Print)

CHEEKTOWAGA, NY (WIVB) - A Cheektowaga man is back with his family after he was brutally attacked on Wednesday afternoon.

His wife tells News 4 that Matthew Rudy has been hospitalized ever since he was beaten in a road rage accident.

There was a man, and two women in the attacker's car, according to Carrie Rudy.

She said the women never called police.

Carrie is not sure how long Rudy's road to recovery will be.

"It's really hard - and that's what a lot of times people don't realize is just how hard when something like this happens, how badly it's going to affect you. It makes it all the worse considering we have four children to take care of," said Carrie.

News 4 has reached out to Cheektowaga Police multiple times.

They have not returned our calls to confirm reports a person has been charged in this case.

Copyright 2018 Nexstar Broadcasting, Inc. All rights reserved. This material may not be published, broadcast, rewritten, or redistributed.
